

PROJECT SA'BAI VISION 2018

OPHTHALMOLOGIST RECRUITMENT

Project Sa'Bai Vision is a student-led service project by medical students from the National University of Singapore. Our team of medical students, optometrists and ophthalmologists reach out to Cambodian villagers in and around Phnom Penh. This year, we will be holding eye clinics, vision screenings and surgical referrals at three villages and a primary school from 15 to 17 December 2018.

As ophthalmologists, you will help to provide services including advanced eye screenings and surgical referrals to our local Cambodian hospital partners. Based on your medical evaluation of the villagers, you may also prescribe medicated eye drops for their conditions.

SMA and the SMA Charity Fund support volunteerism among our profession. SMA News provides charitable organisations with complimentary space to publicise their causes. To find out more, email news@sma.org.sg or visit the SMA Cares webpage at <https://www.sma.org.sg/smacades>.
