

OSLER'S NOTES

Live a simple and a temperate life, that you may give all your powers to your profession. Medicine is a jealous mistress; she will be satisfied with no less.

(Source: Thayer WS. Osler the Teacher, In Osler and Other Papers, 4.)

Mitral Stenosis may be concealed under a quarter of a dollar. It is the most difficult of all heart diseases to diagnose.

(Source: Bean WB. Sir William Osler: Aphorisms, 142.)

The future belongs to science. More and more she will control the destinies of nations. Already she has them in her crucible and on her balances. In her new mission to humanity she preaches a new gospel.

(Source: Vallery-Radot R. The Life of Pasteur (Introduction by William Osler). London: Constable and Co., 1911: 9-22.)

*John P. McGovern Historical Collections and Research Center, Houston Academy of Medicine-
Texas Medical Center Library
(<http://mcgovern.library.tmc.edu/>)*

